VERDE BUTTERFLY

Description

Verde Butterfly is extracted in a quarry in Espirito Santo, Brazil, renowned for its beautiful beaches, coastal cuisine and sand dunes. Verde Butterfly is a blend of greens and whites with deep black veining. It is a stone ideal for kitchens and bathrooms. This granite is recommended for both commercial and residential applications.

In the course of the polishing process, an epoxy resin is applied to the stone's surface to fill part of its porosity (or pores) and natural cracks that may be apparent. This has no incident on the durability, the maintenance or the beauty of the natural stone. It is possible that certain pores are too small to contain efficiently the resin, and reopen during the finishing stages. However, this does not affect the stone's quality or beauty. Such as it is the case with many natural stones, it is recommended to apply a sealer to extend its beauty through time.
