Description

Mont Blanc is extracted in a quarry in Cachoeiro, Brazil, in the heart of the Espirito Santo State. The city of Cachoeiro is the most important city of the area, renowned throughout the world for its production of quality marbles and granites. The city's nickname, A capital oculta do mundo (The secret capital of the world), describes this region current economic development. This stone's motif, sometimes linear and other times swirling, brings energy and sophistication to a room with its white coloration enhanced by a rich veining of greys and blues. Its crystalline appearance adds a hint of luxury to this already extraordinary stone.
